Doorknockers raise $3500

ALMOST $3500 was raised by Year 7-10 students from Sydney Adventist College in just a few hours one morning last week.

The volunteers went door-to-door collecting funds on behalf of the Adventist Development Relief Agency as part of its 90th annual appeal.

Students were divided into small groups and were accompanied by either a teacher or a visiting minister.

Despite the threat of rain, those who participated enjoyed raising money, which will go directly to humanitarian community projects in Australia and overseas.

College principal Murray Chapman said he was proud of the way in which his students had interacted with the public.
